Whereas, The Central West was once inhabited by a most remarkable pre-historic race; and—

Whereas, the location of the state of Illinois being so central in the extensive territory occupied by the pre-historic race mentioned, viz.—the Mound-Builders, so called, it is pertinent that the University of Illinois should lead in searching out the hidden facts relative to the life and development of that race; be it therefore,—

Resolved, That the Indianapolis Illini Club, after due consideration deems the subject of sufficient importance to suggest to President Kinley and the management of the University of Illinois and urge upon them the appropriateness, importance, and desirability of establishing a course of study in connection with its Biological Department which would systematically develop this line of local ethnology, ethnography, and archeology, to the extent of teaching practical methods and using the same through applied science and research among the remains of this unknown race; and further, that steps be taken to participate in the research work now to be undertaken by the scientific institutions referred to.
